A Quick Way to Decorate China After

the Strie of Hand Painting. A new method of decorating china after the style of hand painting, but by a process which requires no knowledge of drawing or sketching from nature, is what may be called "leaf printing." Procure some leaves of pretty shape and of several sizes-Select two or three that are perfectly fresh a little of the tube paint upon a tile or china plate and rub it down well with the palette knife. Do not add anything to When perfectly senooth thin the paint. dip a small pad into it, rubbing it a little till the paint covers the flat part of it leaves by pressing with the pad till they are covered with the paint. Then place the leaf painted side down upon your thina, cover carefully with a bit of paper, and rub gently with your finger until you think an impression of the entire leaf has been secured. Remove the paper and lift the leaf up very carefully. Print the other leaves in the same way. Put in stems and branches when desired with the brush. By using different colors, or two shades of one color, very pretty effects are secured. Beautiful conventional designs may be made by arranging the leaves in some geometrical form. This style of decora-tion is effective, and requires much less time than in painting the same design soon as the paint is dry the china will be ready for firing in the usual way

Welsh Rarebit.

In preparing Welsh rarebit some cooks apread a little mustard over the teast; others dip the toast into ale instead of not water or add a little ale to the melted cheese. Sometimes a peached egg is served on each slice of Welsh rarchit. Any of these additions may be made, if desired, to the simple but excellent recipe here given: Cut slices of bread into thin, square or diamond shaped pieces after removing the crust. Toast them nicely, buffer them slightly while hot and dip them in a little hot water poured into a dish; they should be only slightly moistened. Place each slice on a separate hot plate, sprinkle over a little salt and pour on enough selted cheese to cover the toust. It should be served at once, while both cheese and toast are bot, otherwise the dish will be ruined.

How to Boll an Egg.

matter, says a writer in The Chicago TiTo-nne. They will tell you to drop the egg into boiling water and let it remain three minutes, and to be sure the water is boiling. Here is where the mistake is made. An egg so prepared is indigestible and hardly fit for a well person, let alone one who is sick, to eat. The moment it is plunged into boiling water the white hard-ens and toughens. To boil an egg properly put it in a vessel, cover with cold water, place over the fire and the second the Largest Paid Up Capital of any Bank in the State of Kansas. water begins to boil you egg is done. For a salad dressing, easily prepared, beat the raw yolk of an egg with a small teaspoonful of mustard and drop in a few drops of lemon. Add gradually, stirring well, one-half of a pint of olive oil, a little salt and vinegar to thin it. Should the dressing curdle beat up another egg and add the curdled dressing, little by little, stirring constantly.

BOYS AS HEROES.

AdmiraCon and Awe That a Little Travel Preduces Among Playmates. Is he really a hero? Boys from 10 to 15 years of age have a great admiration for a boy near their own age who has seen something of the world, and it makes little difference whether the personal appearance of the world worn boy is in his favor or not. In fact, the rougher the exterior the deeper and more heartfelt is their admiration. Over on the North Side is a youth about 16 that the boys swear by. They acknowledge he is different in appearance from well brought up boys, but "he was in the navy, and they wear shirts open at the throat there, and that was where he was tattooed. He has taken care of himself since he was 8 years old. He has been out on the plains and in Texas, and has ridden in the saddle ninety hours without sleep. He has saved thirty or forty lives in as many different ways, and then, you know, mamma, he fights our battles for us, and smaller boys need some one when those gangs get after us." A few nights ago, about 8:30, the bell rang at the house of a lady living on one of the principal streets not far from the She being alone in the house answered it. There was the defender of the neighborhood's well dressed boys against "gangs." His face was white, his lips blue. He said: "Please, ma'am, I am 'Texas.' Will you let me have a glass of water? One of the boys has been taken with cramps in swimming, and I can't bring him to." He pointed with his hand to the povement, and there in he glare of light was a boy about 16 or 17. His white face, with blue circles, coked as if he was beyond help.

After the first shock it needed only a econd glance to see that a doctor's serrices must be secured at once. And the eys, seven or eight of them, lifted their lay the boy was in a very critical condiion, but would live. So there are some iving witnesses to the heroism of the trange boy "Texas," even if semetimes is most ardent admirers wonder if some I those thrilling tales are "really true." -Chicago Herald.

Different Ideas of Lining.

other day of a meddlesome, gossipy neighbor, Mrs. H-, who has constituted herself censor and mentor for the young girls of her acquaintance. The lady has a daughter grown who is so entirely void of attractions as to give her mother no uneasiness. Alice has a great many beaux, and does not escape advice and admonition.

"She told me," said the merry girl, with a mischievous twinkle in eyes, "that no young man who had any regard for a girl would ever offer the least familiarity; that her daughter was 22, and the young men had such perfect respect for her-not one had ever tried to kiss her!"

Alice and I exchanged glances and laughed.

"Pshaw!" said Alice, "I've been kissed more times than I have fingers and toes, but of course I didn't tell her so!" We have too good an opinion of hu-

Kauffman in Jenness-Miller Magazine.

A Mischievous Boy's Act. There is a governess in an uptown family who has not found favor in the eyes of her young pupils. One of these is an 8-year-old boy, with considerable mischief and no end of daring in his composition, and this youngster, who handles his paint brush very neatly, was recently called upon by his governess to paint her name in small white letters inside her handsome new silk umbrella. So Master John set his brushes and boxes out and squared himself to his task "But how shall I mark it. Miss Jones? he asked. "Shall I paint 'Miss Jones' or 'Miss Ellen Jones' or 'Miss E. Jones,'

"Oh," drawls Miss Jones carelessly from her novel, "I don't care—simple 'Ellen Jones' would be best, I fancy." And with this idea put into the head of the mischievous boy, what could be expected except just what did happen For when the umbrella, duly marked, was handed to Miss Jones she opened it to read in letters white and clear and unmistakable the words "Simple Ellen Jones."-New York Evening Sun.

"I am tired of hearing people constantly use the terms 'penny' and 'shilling' when they mean a cent or 134 cents, said a member of the Patriotic Order Sons of America the other day. "It is unpatriotic. We have no 'penny' or 'shilling in our American currency, and American money by American names ought to be good enough for anybody.

"I was at the postoffice not long since, and I bought some stamps. I did not have the exact amount of change required, and I laid a silver dollar on the little shelf in front of the young lady stamp seller. She looked at the coin a moment and then said: 'I can't make the change quite. If you had some pennies I might fix it. Have you any pennies?"
"'No,' I said, 'I have only American money.' She did not understand me at the change all right. I told her I thought American nomenclature for coin should be used exclusively under the shadow of the Stars and Stripes."-Chicago Times.

To Keep Lights Bright. Soak lamp wicks in vinegar before using them in a lamp. Wash smoke stained chimneys in warm water and soap, and rub while wet with vinegar or dry salt. They can also be cleaned, as may be globes on gas fixtures, in warm water and soda, and then in warm water and ammonia.-Exchange. The Federation of Women's Clubs has accepted the invitation of the Chicago Women's club to hold its 1892 meeting

"Where did you get that umbrella?" de manded a citizen flercely, as he recognized familiar looking rain protector. 'Before I answer that," repeated the other calmly, "suppose you tell me where you obtained it originally." Then the first questioner wilted .- Mun sey's Weekly.

Of Enormous Size. According to The Medical Press there died on July 26, at Plaisance, France, a girl of 19 years who was of enormous size. A year ago she was weighed and was found to exceed 470 pounds, and since then she had considerably increased. Around her waist she measured two yards and a half while the circumference of her arm exceeded one yard. She succumbed to ery-

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Cardinal Newman's Definition of "The True Gentleman." The ideas of so polished an sociasiastic as the late Cardinal Newman in regard to the characteristics of a true gentleman form an interesting contribution to the literature of a much vexed question, to which nearly every writer or would-be anthority in the social world has tried to formulate a satisfactory answer. The true gentleman carefully avoids whatever may cause a jar or a joit in the minds of those with whom he is cast. All clashing of opinion or collision of feeling, all restraint or suspicion or gloom or resentment, his great concern being to make every one at his case and at home. He has his eyes on all his company; he is ten-der toward the bashful, gentle toward the distant and merciful toward the absurd. He can recollect to whom he is speaking. He guards against unseasonable a or topics which may irritate. He is sel dom prominent in conversation and never wearlsome. He makes light of favors while he does them, and seems to be reseiving when he is conferring. He never speaks of himself except when compelled, never defends himself by a mere retort. He has no ears for slauder or gossip, is scrupulous in imputing motives to those who interfere with him and interprets everything for the best. He is never mean or little in his disputes, never takes unfair advantage, never mistakes personalities or sharp sayings or arguments, or insinuates evil which be dare not say out.

From a long sighted prodence he observes the maxim of the ancient sage, that we should ever conduct ourselves toward our enemy as if he were one day to be our riend. He has too much sense to be affronted at insults, he is too well employed to remember injuries, and too indolent to bear malice. He is patient, forbearing burden and carried him across the street and resigned on philosophical principles; to a physician. The doctor said next he submits to pain because it is inevitable, to bereavement because it is irreparable, and to death because it is destiny. If he engage in controversy of any kind, his dissplined intellect preserves him from the blundering discourtesy of better, perhaps, but less educated minds, who, like blunt weapons, tear and back instead of cutting clean, who mistake the point in argument waste their strength on trifles, misconceive their adversary, and leave the question A beautiful high toned girl of 20-let | more involved than they find it.
